DARKNESS

And Silence Shroud the Corpses of Uncle Sam's Boys.

Society Born Too Soon Seems Quickly Laid at Rest.

Proprietor of Hall Tells Promoters Premises Are Not Available.

SOME CATHOLIC AMERICANS

Uncle Sam's Boys seem to have kept discreetly quiet since the exposure of their preamble and ritual by the Kentucky Irish American a week ago. The shade on the dark lantern society has been pulled to obscure the light, yet these moles are burrowing in the dark. Col. Pettit, of Shelbyville, the new United States Collector of Internal Revenue for this, the Fifth district of Kentucky, has been heralded as a highly patriotic and upright citizen. It has been said that he will make his administration the greatest in the history of the district. Does he propose to accomplish his end by allowing his subordinates to join Uncle Sam's Boys, an organization that proscribes Catholics? Nobody believes that he will tolerate such a state of affairs, and yet it is said upon good authority that quite a number of revenue employees are now enrolled under Uncle Sam's Boys' banner. It is also stated that one of the chief organizers is a Storekeeper-Gauger and is employed in a West End distillery. It is up to Collector Pettit to show his hand. The person referred to as one of the organizers is a remnant of the ill-omened crowd that organized the A. P. A. in Louisville in 1893.

The exposure made last week seems to have knocked the plans of the promoters of Uncle Sam's Boys into smithereens. Whatever has been done in the dark, they have made no move in the open since the last appearance of the Kentucky Irish American.

What a name for an American descriptive society. We are all Uncle Sam's boys—Catholic, Protestant, Jew and Gentile. So that we are all Americans, we are all sons of Uncle Sam.

Why should Americans proscribe Catholics? Catholics made America possible. The Catholic navigator, Christopher Columbus, added by funds furnished by their Catholic majesties, King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella, showed the way. The Cabots and Vesputius came later, and all this before Martin Luther began his alleged reformation.

St. Augustine, Fla., is the oldest city in the United States. It was established by Catholic missionaries in 1565. A little later Catholic missionaries also founded Santa Fe, N. M. Marquette discovered the Mississippi river, De Soto explored it. Both were Catholics and both loved America.

In 1654 Father Semon le Moine, a Jesuit, discovered the salt springs at Onondaga, N. Y. The first person to draw attention to the mineral oil wells at Lake Erie was Father John de la Roche d'Alton, and the cargo of wheat to pass down the Mississippi from Illinois was the product of a Jesuit mission. The first sugar cane grown in the vicinity of New Orleans was cultivated by Jesuits.

To whom more than Lafayette do Americans owe thanks for aid in gaining their independence? Yet Lafayette was a Catholic, and in 1834 the bell in Philadelphia that rang out the Declaration of American Independence completed its mission in connection with the Revolution when it tolled the death of Lafayette.

The Catholic Church is the same the world over. Her sons in whatever clime worship at the same shrine. Catholics in America are not fighting the Baptists, Methodists, Episcopalians, Hebrews or any other denomination, but they will not stand for any trespassing on their rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Uncle Sam's Boys made an attempt to hold a meeting on West Market street last Thursday night. Dodgers had been printed in an attempt to draw a crowd. It was advertised that the Rev. M. P. Hunt, pastor of the Twenty-second and Walnut street Baptist church, and the Rev. Robert E. Reed, pastor of the Twenty-sixth and Market street church, would address those present. Probably twenty-five, certainly not more than thirty, heard the addressers, whoever they were. They heard a trade against Catholics in general and against "cellars, sub-cellars and the lemon faced Pope on the Tiber."

Next day the proprietor told Uncle Sam's Boys the hall was engaged for several seasons to come.

LIFE'S WORK ENDED.

Gebhardt Hinkelbein, eighty-seven years old, one of New Albany's best known and most highly respected citizens, died Tuesday at his home, 409 East Market street, in the house in which he had lived for fifty-eight years. He was a shoemaker, and at his trade up to a few days ago. Fifty-eight years ago Mr. Hinkelbein was married to Mary's church, Eighth and Grayson streets, Louisville, and immediately following the ceremony he and his bride repaired to the house in New Albany where he died. He is survived by his wife and the following children: Benjamin S. Hinkelbein, former City Clerk of New Albany; Mrs. Antonette Zimmerman, Misses Mary and Frances Hinkelbein, and Frank and Antone Hinkelbein, all of New Albany. Mr. Hinkelbein was a devout member of St. Mary's Catholic church, New Albany, from where the funeral was held. His widow is eighty-two years of age.

RIGHT VIEW.

Judge O'Doherty on Celebration of Columbus Day.

Judge Matt O'Doherty, of this city, has an excellent article on the method of observing Columbus day in the July issue of the Columbiad, the official organ of the Knights of Columbus. Judge O'Doherty says in part:

"The great event which we aim to commemorate on Columbus day has a patriotic or national as well as a religious relation and significance, and so the celebration of the day should have regard to both of these aspects. Columbus was essentially and pre-eminently a man of sublime faith—it was this faith which sustained him in his many trials, which enabled him to overcome the many obstacles in his path—obstacles which to any but the heroic soul that he was must have proved insurmountable. He possessed in an extraordinary degree the courage and zeal of an apostle—indeed he was an apostle no less than explorer or discoverer. The religious side of the celebration should therefore be its most prominent feature."

"Columbus day should, it seems to me, especially in those States where it has been made a legal holiday, be a holy communion day for the Knights of Columbus. This should be the first feature of the celebration. We may rest assured that Columbus would have it so if he could be con- sidered. A capable and prominent speaker should be selected to deliver an address appropriate to the occasion in the afternoon or night in some public hall. In some places it may be better to have a banquet where a number of speakers can be heard. Local conditions will have a great deal to do in determining the particular form the celebration should take, but its religious aspect should not be disregarded in any case."

"The religious feature of the celebration having been attended to in the morning, the aim should be to make the celebration in the afternoon or night broad enough to be interesting alike to all Americans, Catholics and non-Catholics. All are under a deep debt of gratitude to Columbus, and all should have a like opportunity of acknowledging the obligation by honoring his memory. It is true that in a particular way we who share the faith of Columbus

"Are his heirs and wear his name," but we should not attempt to monopolize his fame. We desire to make his name and memory dear as they should be to the hearts of all our people, and we should therefore be careful not to needlessly offend even the foolish prejudices of some of our non-Catholic fellow-citizens."

The Judge declares that balls, dances, minstrel shows, etc., should not be thought of or tolerated.

ZEAL ADMIRER.

Henderson Catholics Are Showing Appreciation of Pastor.

The Rev. Father Edward Lynch, pastor of Holy Name church at Henderson, spent several days in Louisville this week. His old friends here were glad to see him in such good health. He has the loyal support of the Catholics in his city and has many friends among the non-Catholics. It would be hard to find in Kentucky a congregation that is more loyal to its pastor than that of Henderson.

During the absence of Father Lynch the people of the parish busied themselves putting down grand old sidewalks around the church, and within a short time will substitute granite steps for the old wooden terrace.

TAKES NEW MISSION.

The Rev. Father Joseph Schunicht, O. M. C., left yesterday for Trenton, N. J., where he is to be assistant pastor at St. Francis church. Father Schunicht was ordained about four years ago, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Schunicht, of 2111 West Madison street. Since his ordination the young levite has been stationed at Centuria, Wis. While in Louisville he spent many pleasant hours with his parents, his brother, J. F. Schunicht, and other relatives.

CATHOLIC MAYORS.

Connecticut now has six Catholic Mayors, all Knights of Columbus. They are as follows: Edward F. Smith, of Hartford; Joseph M. Holeran, of New Britain; Bryan F. Mahan, of New London, who is prominently mentioned as Democratic candidate for Governor; Daniel F. Dunn, of Williamstown, third term; Thomas L. Reilly, of Meriden, third term; Stephen L. Charters, of Ansonia, fourth term.

COUNTIES

In Various States of the Union That Bear Irish Names.

Erlin's Sons Were Pioneers and Left Their Trails Behind.

FOR FREEDOM AND RIGHT

In the United States war on the Catholic church has always taken the shape of war on the foreigner. There are some anti-Catholics who would resent the statement that Christopher Columbus was a foreigner. Yet foreigners have been the pioneers in every walk of life, whether the field of battle, the farm, the forum or in the realms of science and art.

Of the 119 counties in Kentucky ten were named for natives of Ireland and fifteen for sons of Irish pioneers. Kansas has fourteen counties bearing Irish names. In olden days the Irish immigrant was certainly fond of the South. In Georgia we find Burke, Bryan, Carroll, Coffee, Calhoun, Dawson, Dooly, Dougherty, Early, Fannin, Fulton, Flynn, Hart, Brady, Heard, Jackson, Jasper, Talbot and Wayne. Eleven of these were named after men born in Ireland, and the other after sons of Irishmen.

Eight counties in North Carolina are named after Irishmen. Burke county is named after Gov. Thomas Burke, a native of Galway. Harnett county was named for Cornelius Harnett, a native of Dublin and a member of the Continental Congress. Arthur Dobbs, once a Governor of North Carolina, was a native of Carrickfergus, and a county is named after him. Montgomery is named after Gen. Richard Montgomery, of Donegal; Moore for Gov. Maurice Moore, a distinguished Colonial soldier. Rutherford and Davidson counties were also named after Irish heroes of Colonial days. Gaston, Jackson, McDowell and Wayne counties were named in honor of sons of native Irishmen.

Michigan has its Irish counties, too. Antrim, Clare, Roscommon, Wexford, Barry, Calhoun and Wayne Emmet, Jackson, Macomb and Wayne counties. In Maryland are several counties named for Irishmen. Among them is Baltimore county, named after Lord Baltimore, the pioneer colonizer of Maryland; Talbot county, named after George Talbot, of Roscommon; Garrett and Montgomery counties.

San Patricio county, Texas, was named by a Spaniolized Irishman. Patrick county in Virginia was undoubtedly named in honor of an Irishman.

There are counties in the United States named O'Brien, Conway, Ulster, Kearney, Kane, McDonough, McKean, Fergus, Meagher, Kearney, Harney, McHenry, Taney, Shannon, Sheridan, Dunn, McCurtain, Sharkey, Walsh, Callahan, Nolan, Regan, Donnelly, McMullen, McLennon, Dawson, Calhoun, Cochran, Crockett, Fannin, Gillespie, Hayes, Jackson, Jasper and Montgomery.

Twelve States have Carroll counties; eleven have Calhoun counties, while there are eight Butler and six Sullivan counties. Carroll was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence; Calhoun was a Vice President of the United States and a son of Patrick Calhoun, of Donegal; Butler was a Major General in the Revolutionary war, and one of the five brothers who were officers in that memorable conflict; and Sullivan was the son of John Sullivan, a County Kerry schoolmaster.

RECEIVED IN AUDIENCE.

Among those who were received in private audience by the Holy Father last week were the Rev. Dr. James P. McGraw, of Syracuse; the Rev. Thomas Brennan, of Berkeley, Cal.; the Rev. Hugh and Daniel I. MacGittigan, of Philadelphia; the Rev. Thomas J. McLaughlin, of New York; and Mrs. Henry C. Loughlin, of Philadelphia. There were no audiences during this week, as Pius X. and all his court entered a retreat, implying silence and retirement for eight days.

OLIVE HAVEN.

Cool and beautiful, with the grounds a perfect garden spot, the second week of the Catholic Summer School at Cliff Haven opened last Sunday with most encouraging prospects. The first family gathering on Sunday evening brought out everyone on the assembly grounds and proved a most enjoyable occasion. The Rev. Father Hickey presided and presented the various speakers. The lectures on Irish art and literature have been of unusual interest, while the evening recitals are proving very entertaining. On Monday the evening programme of patriotic selections by Miss Mary C. V. Neville, of New York, was quite in keeping with the spirit of the day and were admirably done. The selections by Miss Neville were supplemented by a reading of the Declaration of Independence by George J. Gillespie and singing of patriotic airs by the audience. The first ball of the season was held at the Champlain Club on Wednesday evening and was well attended.

The programme of Round Table Talks will be inaugurated next week by Helene H. Magrath, of New York City, who will talk on "A Trip Through America With Abbe Klein." The evening sessions during the coming week will be taken up by song recitals by Marie A. Zeckwer, of Philadelphia.

GRAND SIGHT.

Soldiers and Citizens Witness Military Mass at Chicago.

Prior to the opening of the great Fourth of July military tournament the first military mass ever celebrated in Chicago was held in the arena in Grant Park, and was for the 3,000 soldiers camped there and others who wished to attend. The mass was celebrated by the Rev. Andrew C. Murphy, Chaplain of the Fifth field artillery, U. S. A., and was an imposing ceremony. Three hundred robust chorists sang the musical portions of the mass and the Paulist cadets executed the military rites. An altar had been constructed in front of the reserved seat section of the arena at the foot of Van Buren street and from this point Father Murphy conducted the mass. The Paulist cadets were drawn up surrounding the Chaplain priest and directly in front of him was the Paulist Choral Society and the Irish Choral Society, comprising 300 singers.

The military mass was primarily for the benefit of the soldiers in the camp, who attended in a body, but the general public was given an invitation to attend, occupying seats in the spacious grand stand.

Officers of the camp announced that those who attend the ceremony should go to the arena in a reverent manner and witness the mass just as they would in a church. No smoking or talking was permitted, as permission was only given for the holding of the mass after assurance that it would be heard in a befitting manner and not be given as a performance for amusement of the general public. The Twenty-seventh Infantry and Fifth field artillery bands combined to furnish the instrumental music for the mass. Chaplain Murphy has celebrated military masses at a number of army gatherings, and the ceremony Monday was one of them. The military mass dates back to the days of the Knights of St. John, when this famous military body originated the high military mass and had regular celebrations of it by their priests.

MACKIN COUNCIL

Arouses Interest in Its Coming Lawn Fete.

The election of delegates to the Grand Council of the Y. M. I. to be held at Bellevue in August drew a large attendance at Mackin Council on Monday night. President John T. Kenney occupied the chair. The delegates chosen are Hon. Samuel J. Robertson, William Burke, Dr. J. A. Casper and John H. Hancock.

The committee arranging for the memorial window in St. Cecilia's church reported favorable progress and distributed the combination books among the contestants. The winner will be given a trip to the world's championship baseball series. The rivalry promises to be great.

The council inaugurated a movement to secure a children's playground for the West End. It was decided to appropriate $100 toward equipping the playground in the event it was secured. A class of ten candidates is ready for initiation and a date for conferring the degrees will be announced soon.

RECENT DEATHS.

The home of Capt. John and Mrs. Elizabeth Flahive, 740 South Twenty-third street, was cast in gloom Tuesday when the angel of death claimed their infant only child, Michael Francis Flahive, aged eight months. Funeral services were held Thursday morning and the interment was in St. Louis cemetery. For the parents there is the most heartfelt sympathy, though they have the consolation of knowing an angel awaits them in heaven.

The funeral of Miss Mary F. Doherty, sister of Daniel E. Doherty, whose death was due to the infirmities of old age, took place Monday morning from St. Mary Magdalen's church, the Rev. Father William Ganseph officiating at the solemn obsequies. Miss Doherty was a native of Ireland, having been born in Strabane in 1825. She came to this country with her parents in early childhood and has lived in Louisville many years. She was widely known for her piety and charitable disposition.

ENTER XAVIERIAN ORDER.

Last Saturday at Baltimore nine young men entered the Xavierian Brotherhood at Mount St. Joseph's College. Among those who entered were three from Kentucky. They are Emil Muth, of Louisville; Joseph Wiseman, of Elizabethtown, and E. Hohimer, of Whitesville. The Rev. Father Robert, of the Passionist monastery, officiated at their reception. Brother J. Chrysostom, of Belgium, and the head of the order, was present and closed the ceremonies, which were of an elaborate nature.

REDMOND.

Irish Leader Now in Position to Dictate Terms in British Politics.

Asquith's Delay in the Budget Fight Prevents Serious Clash.

Price For Fight Against the Lords and For Home Rule.

GRAVE PERIL HAS PASSED

Redmond scored again last week, cables T. P. O'Connor to the American press. With the veto guns silenced for the moment by the conference and the budget, with no relief on the whiskey tax, coming on immediately, the situation for some days of last week was decidedly menacing. If the Government had insisted on proceeding through all the stages of the budget and at the same time had indefinitely prolonged the conference and the pause on the veto fight Redmond would have been obliged to vote against the budget and destroy the budget and the Government. Such a step, though inevitable, must also have brought some grave calamities, such as the postponement of the fight against the Lords, the postponement of home rule, the exasperation of the Liberals, and therefore the creation of two anti-Irish parties in British politics instead of one. There were accordingly many anxious hours for Redmond during last week. The situation now has enormously cleared. Asquith's promise of a winter session, coupled with a postponement of the stages of the budget to these settings, leaves Redmond master of the situation.

By the time the winter sittings begin one of two things will have happened. Either the Government and the Tories will have agreed to a compromise on the veto or the conference will have broken up and the veto fight once more will be raging with the old fury. If the Government makes a compromise hostile to home rule, Redmond can defeat the budget and overthrow the Government. If the Government enters once more into a courageous fight against the Lords, Irish opinion will back Redmond in swallowing the budget as Ireland's price for a real fight against the Lords and for home rule.

Though the prospects therefore are now enormously brighter than last week, Redmond's difficulties are not entirely removed. Lloyd-George made an enormous blunder in yielding to the clamor of the ultra-temperance party and the renewal of the whiskey tax. The results on the Irish whiskey trade will be serious, though greatly exaggerated, and O'Brien and Healy will make this tax a weapon with which to attack Redmond, but this game was tried in the spring and ended in a hopeless failure and faction is dying hourly in Ireland.

The conference situation still is mysterious and nebulous. The general impression is that it must end in a failure. This was reflected in the widespread rumor that the conference already had burst up. The impatience among the Radicals also has reached such a high point that a written remonstrance would have been presented to Asquith if the soothing tongue of the master of Eltham, the chief Liberal whip, had not calmed the mutineers. The result of all this pressure must be to hurry up the conference and strengthen the Liberal negotiations against any weak concession to the Tories. Winston Churchill still speaks hopefully of the possibility of a compromise in the conference, and the two successes of the Liberals in two recent by-elections will help the Liberals weaken the Tories.

In any case, however, Redmond's success in getting the winter sittings has pleased the Radicals as much as the Irish. Once again Redmond has shown himself the real leader of the English Radicals and has made the Radical as well as the Irish tactics win. Thus the week, which began in gloom and uncertainty, ends in energy, confidence, and a closer union of the English and Irish progressive forces, and the near future promises either the acceptance by the Tories of some compromise which will give the Liberals and Irish most of what they want, or an immediate and more violent renewal of the campaign against the present powers of the House of Lords.

MOURN HIS DEATH.

The death of Patrick O'Brien, the well known hotel keeper, caused a feeling of indespread gloom on Monday at Frankfort, where he was held in the highest esteem. His first serious illness was early last fall, but he rallied considerably from the attack and his many friends were hopeful that he would be fully restored to health. He had some serious kidney trouble that could not be cured, and after several attacks about two weeks ago his condition became so serious that physicians gave up all hope. He lingered until Monday afternoon, though he was unconscious for several days. He had been a resident of Woodford county for several years before he moved to Frankfort and took charge of the Frankfort Hotel and made for himself an enviable reputation for honesty and square dealing in all his business ventures. He is survived by his wife and two sons. His uncle, Peter King, to whom he was very devoted, died a few days ago in New York. The funeral services were held Wednesday morning at Frankfort, after which the remains were brought to this city for interment in St. Louis cemetery.

FIFTY YEARS.

Mr. and Maurice Coll Celebrate Their Golden Wedding.

The most notable social event of recent years in Jeffersonville took place yesterday, when Maurice Coll and his estimable wife celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage at their home, 808 East Chestnut street. An unusual fact connected with the event is that both of the attendants and the priest who officiated at the marriage are still living, and were present at the golden wedding. The marriage of Maurice Coll and Miss Maria Herron was on July 8, 1860, at the Cathedral, Louisville, the Rev. Father Hugh Brady officiating. The bridesmaid was the bride's sister, Miss Anna Heron, who is now Mrs. Anna Mackey, of Louisville. The best man was the bridegroom's brother, Bernard Coll, who now lives in Pittsburg.

The worthy couple preferred a quiet celebration and family reunion, but they are so well known and popular that this was out of the question, and all day their home was thronged with friends, who called to offer congratulations. All the children and a number of grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Coll were present for the happy occasion. They are: Mrs. Cornelius McNamara, a daughter of the celebrants, and her children, of Keokuk, Iowa; George Coll, a well-known attorney of Dallas, Tex.; Bernard A. Coll, a member of the Jeffersonville City Council and a prosperous business man, who at one time was Treasurer of Clark county; John P. Coll, a leading Jeffersonville grocer; Mrs. Nellie Edelen, wife of Dr. Charles Edelen, of Louisville; Charles Coll and Ernest Coll, of Jeffersonville; James Coll, of Cincinnati, and Edmond Coll, of South Bend.

Mr. Coll is a native of County Donegal, Ireland, and was born November 27, 1833. A good part of his life was spent in Pittsburg, but he has been a resident of Jeffersonville for forty years, and was formerly a well-known machinist. He served two years in the City Council as a member from the Fifth ward. Mrs. Coll is a native of New Orleans and is about three years younger than her husband. She is a most estimable woman, with hundreds of friends. The gathering Friday was one of the most enjoyable ever held by the family.

ALTERNATES

For Delegates to Hibernian State Convention.

The fact that Division 1, A. O. H., will elect alternate delegates to the State convention at Ashland at the meeting to be held at Falls City Hall on July 19 is expected to bring out the biggest attendance of the summer. This is an honor that many covet and in which there is great interest. President Thomas Walsh presided over the deliberations Tuesday night, which were spirited and important. Treasurer Thomas Keenan, Sr., Martin J. Cusick, Secretary Thomas Lawlor and others made timely talks and spoke for the County Board outing at Phoenix Hill, and also for the celebration under the auspices of Division 1 at Fontaine Ferry next month.

Walter Coakley was elected to membership, and it is now certain that an initiation will be held in the near future. All members of the order were surprised and grieved when the Visiting Committee reported that Secretary Thomas Dolan was suffering from eye trouble and that Officer John Holden was again confined to his home. Both are valued members of Division 1, and it is earnestly hoped their illness will be of short duration. President Walsh urged those present to assist Miss Lally, who is their candidate, in the County Board contest now in progress.

ENVOYS COMING.

John Redmond, Chairman of the Irish party, who is coming over to attend the great convention of the United Irish League of America at Buffalo next September, cables that he will be accompanied by Messrs. Joseph Devlin, Daniel Doyle and T. P. O'Connor, three of the ablest Irish leaders in the House of Commons. The envoys will sail September 7, and with the exception of Mr. O'Connor will spend at least six weeks in this country. They will visit the larger cities, a number of which have already arranged dates through National Secretary John O'Callaghan, of Boston.

PROMOTION PROVES POPULAR.

The appointment of Thomas D. Clines as one of the Assistant Cashiers of the Commercial Bank and Trust Company has been confirmed by the directors. Mr. Clines has been with the bank since its founding and each promotion has been an award of merit. The young banker is one of the best known young Irish-Americans in Louisville and is prominently identified in Y. M. I. and Hibernian circles.

BAZAR

For Sisters of Mercy Recall Irish Origin of Their Order.

Catherine McAuley Devoted Fortune to Found Grand Work.

Obedient to Authority, Always Achieved the Purpose Desired.

NUNS WORK IN THIS CITY

In view of the fact that arrangements are being made by Louisville Catholics to give a bazar in autumn to aid the Sisters of Mercy, who have labored long and zealously in the diocese, it is apropos to say that the order is of Irish origin. Sisters of Mercy are teachers primarily, and their graduates are among the foremost maids and matrons of the community.

Mary Catherine McAuley, foundress of the Order of Mercy, was born at Stormont House, Dublin county, September 29, 1779. Her parents, who were Catholics, died while she was young, and she and her brother and sister were brought up by Protestants.

At eighteen she was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. O'Callaghan, of Stock House. They were not of her belief, and while they were kind and affectionate and encouraged her to impose ministrations among the poor, it was almost necessary for her to practice the observances of religion in private; yet so great was Catherine's influence that she had the satisfaction of bringing both of them over to the Catholic Church before their decease. Mr. O'Callaghan died in 1822 (having survived but a few years), leaving Catherine a large fortune, which she determined to devote to works of mercy. She accordingly bought a plot of ground in Baggot street, Dublin, and without well-defined intentions laid the foundations of an institution for the education of the young of the city, and the protection of servants and women of good character and to serve as a home for sick and dying. This "House of Our Blessed Lady of Mercy" was completed in 1827.

For three years Catherine McAuley and her friends continued their ministrations without recognition as a regular order. December 12, 1831, she and two of her companions, after a searching novitiate of fifteen months, pronounced, according to the rule of the Presentation order, their vows of perpetual poverty, chastity and obedience, subject to whatever alteration should be deemed necessary for the due performance of the duties of the new institute of the Sisters of Mercy. Catherine McAuley was, by Archbishop Murray, canonically appointed mother-superior. Thus a new order was founded which has since spread over the world, and in 1863 numbered 150 convents under its rule. The institution of the order was approved by Pope Gregory XVI. in 1836. She died November 11, 1841, and was buried in the little cemetery adjoining the Baggot street convent.

One of her biographers says: "The character of Catherine McAuley the most precious legacy that her children can inherit from her. Her chief strength seems to lie in simplicity. It was this that preserved her through the trials which her faith was exposed to in her younger years, and kept her being chilled and hardened was so long a period of her life, unable to practice her religious life in mere necessities, and hardly allowed to make any opposition of it."

"Yet we find her, after she passed forty, able to begin the life of mercy with which her name is now connected forever. We still more remarkable is the gentleness with which she allowed herself to be moulded and without complaining of the loss of the life she had brought with her, she took it."

The Sisters of Mercy are long and earnestly known. They conduct the Academy of the Sacred Heart, on East Market street. Besides this, the order are engaged in each local parochial school.

CAPT. FLAHIVE'S DEATH.

Words can not express the grief of their first-born son, Michael Francis Flahive, of his pathetic handsomeness. It is a man's heart that is helping Captain Flahive and his estimable wife, who are under the loss of their only son, to bear the loss of their only son, Michael Francis Flahive, who died on Monday evening. Little Michael Flahive was only eight months old, but to both father and mother the loss was a great one. The funeral took place from St. Cecilia's church, at 740 South Twenty-third street, yesterday.

BASE HYPOCRISY.

World-wide seems to be the crusade against the Jeffers-Johnson moving pictures. Governors that are and Governors that want to be have uttered their anathemas against the brutal sport. And it is well.

Why should a man want to see blood spilled? They do it and pay big prices for the privilege. The man who had the rhino to get to Reno paid the price and paid another price at Reno. The man who did not have the price consoled himself on July 4 with the thought that he was saving something and that he would see the fight for ten cents at a later date.

Suddenly a wave, a simoon, a sirocco or whatever you may please to call this spasm of gentility, has spread over the world, and the authorities will have none of it.

These same authorities will stand day after day and week after week for moving pictures depicting marital infidelity, yet they say nothing.

Moving pictures have shown us American soldiers fighting in the Philippines, where black and brown were slaughtered by wholesale.

At wholesale slaughter count? Any worse for one man to fight than for one country to fight?

The era of the moving picture is dawning. Men like Allen Kim and E. W. Dustin will bring the amusement up to an educational standard. In time we will see pictures of the Crusades, of the battle of Clontarf, of the Thirty Years' War, of Cromwell, of Patrick Sarsfield, of the Irish Brigade at Fontenoy, of Nero and the burning of Rome, of Solomon and his temple and of Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden.

All of us have read of these things. Will we be any better or worse for seeing the pictures? Hardly.

For weeks before the fight the daily papers surfeited their readers with the conditions of the candidates for little honors and have since regaled us with stories of the black man's victory. These newspaper stories are worse than the pictures. The pictures tell the truth, while the reporters draw on their imagination. The people attempting to stop the pictures are hypocrites or worse.

All agree with the Irish Standard that there was no time in the history of Ireland when the need of unity was greater than it is now. And Ireland is not seriously wanting in that respect today, for a country with nine-tenths of its representatives following the leadership of one man certainly can be said to be united. There are those who are becoming impatient because Mr. Redmond didn't force the issue of Home Rule before the budget was passed. Mr. Redmond is no novice in the art of statesmanship and if he and nine-tenths of his colleagues saw fit to follow their present course it is the duty of every loyal Irishman to submit to their judgment and not be too loquacious in uttering the childish retort, "and you so."

The General Council of the city of Louisville did well to choose men like John H. Whallen and Frank McGehee as directors of the Louisville Gas Company. Mr. Gehee and Whallen are thoroughly identified with the city's interests. If the members of the General Council exercise the same forethought in their choice of directors for the city of Louisville would be a better place.

Mr. W. T. Speak and daughter, Miss Jeannette, will leave next week for Salem, Ill., where Mrs. Speak will join her husband, who holds a responsible position there.

Robert J. Hagan and Clem W. Huggins sailed from New York and will spend the summer in Europe. They will visit all the principal cities and points of interest.

Miss M. Connaughton, of the New York Store, will leave for New York next week, and on July 16 will sail on the Celtic for London and Paris. She will return about the first of September.

B. Gordon, formerly of this city, but now floor manager for one of Cincinnati's largest department stores, was here with his family last week for a visit to friends and relatives.

TIRED PLAYERS

Should Have Rest On Bench Without Any Salary.

The Toledo team will be here today for a series of four games with the Colonels, and as they have been going at a fast clip lately Manager Howard's aggregation will find them a harder proposition than either the Indianapolis or Columbus clubs. In the Toledo line-up are several Louisville favorites, among them being Billy Hallman, the fast outfielder; Grover Land, of Frankfurt, and Charley Hickman, their star slugger and popular throughout the Association.

Although sore over the late miserable showing of the Colonels the fans are ready to rally to their support at the first sign of improvement, and this could be brought about by Manager Howard giving a long rest on the bench to several of the present commons.

RIVERVIEW.

Riverview Park is now a center of activity for summer amusements, and young and old are swarming every afternoon and evening, breaking all previous records in the history of this popular resort. Every attraction is in full blast. The free concerts, vaudeville show, swimming pool, scenic railway and other devices have caught the fancy of the crowds, and there seems to be no zenith to their popularity.

HIBERNIANS
What They Have Been In the Past Week—General News Notes.

Indianapolis Hibernians will their annual Irish day celebration August 15.

Wisconsin Hibernians will endeavor to bring the next national convention to Milwaukee.

Division 2 has been making progress this year and will have an excellent report for the State convention.

Division 3 is still receiving for the hospitality of its last meeting. Such affairs help in the attendance.

Chicago Hibernians, through Secretary O'Brien, have made some donation to the Irish Home fund.

Division 1 expects to have fine set of pictures and a real program for its Irish-American day at Fontaine Ferry.

They are going some at Memphis. The division there held five new names last week, at the next meeting will initiate many more.

The Ancient Order now has approximately 250,000 members, including that splendid body of Catholic women, the Ladies' Altar, which is making remarkable progress everywhere.

With banquets at the dining hotels and drives around the city there will be entertainment for the delegates to the national convention when they arrive at St. Paul and Minneapolis.

All members of Division will be notified to attend the meeting. In addition to the election alternate delegates to the State convention there will be business of vital importance for consideration.

Upon all sides is heard the cry for another initiation. Each of the four divisions has candidates waiting the degrees, and as Division has a team that gives the best explanation ever seen here there is reason for longer delay.

Monday night Division will receive reports of the roll of the Phoenix Hill outing, and all indications they will be gratifying. It is also probable at this meeting the alternates will be named for the Ashland convention.

Division 4 will hold a interesting meeting Monday night. Reports will be received from the City Board Executive Committee, also the programme for the coming Hibernian celebration, for which President Hennessy will name a number of sub-committees.

No society of Catholics closer to the priesthood of the Catholic church than the Ancient Order of Hibernians. This is due as it should be, since it was organized primarily to defend the persecuted and outlawed priests in the penal days in the old land across the water.

Much interest is being aroused in the contest between the four young ladies to be decided at the union celebration at Phoenix Hill. Each one has a large number of friends who are selling tickets for hot cakes. The rivalry is spirited but friendly, and before long many besides the Hibernians will be taking an active part. The prizes to be awarded are valuable and worthy of earnest struggle.

EFFECT OF FAITH.

A Protestant lady writing of the Passion Play at Oberammergau stops when she comes to describing the scene of the crucifixion. She says: "So much has been written of this part of the play that shall pass it over. The vast audience held its breath; faces were wet with tears. While it lasted no movement, so intense was the excitement. It is not possible to witness the Passion Play and not be changed by it." It would be well for Protestants, says the Sacred Heart Review, to reflect that without the fall of the Catholic Church, without its influence on the lives of the people, such a presentation of the passion and death of our Lord could not be given. "What has made it possible," asks the writer quoted above, "for these barbarian peasants thus to portray the life and death of the Saviour?" And she replies, "Faith in Him." Precisely. But where outside the Catholic Church is such faith in Him to be found?

ENJOYS GOOD HEALTH.

The Pope's health continues excellent. Recently he suspended private audiences in order to take part in a series of religious exercises, which he himself established by decree. He has been stronger and brighter since eliminating the audiences, which sometimes are very trying on him physically, especially in the summer months.

PROVINCIAL VETERAN.

The new Provincial of the St. Louis Province of the Brothers of the Christian Schools, Rev. Brother Emory, was a boy soldier in the civil war, enlisting in his early teens in an Illinois regiment. His life is thus a lesson in itself of combined patriotism and Catholicity, a splendid type of American citizenship.

CAPTIVATED RUSSIANS.

Miss Mildred Kerney, daughter of the late Dennis Kerney, of San Francisco, has returned to Ireland from Russia, where she has been singing for a year and a half. She will spend the summer in England and then go to America for a short visit. She is the fortunate possessor of a ten year contract to appear in Russia. Probably no other music hall artist has so long a contract.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.
Late News That Will Interest Members Here and Elsewhere.

Last week at Shelbyville, Ind., a class of fourteen received the first degree.

The Knights of Grand Rapids, Mich., have planned to erect a fine home next year.

At the recent initiation at Huron, S. D., a class of sixty new members was received into the order.

The fourth degree members are arranging for some big doings at Indianapolis during the fall.

A picnic is to be given under the auspices of Colorado Springs Council for the benefit of St. Francis' Hospital.

Judged by the preparations being made at Quebec the coming national convention promises to be "the greatest yet."

On the afternoon of the Sunday preceding Columbus day there will be exemplification of the fourth degree at Boston.

Buffalo Council has paid in $3,000, its full proportion of the endowment fund for the Catholic University of America.

The Knights of Denver attended in a body the first mass of Rev. Christian Darley, C. S. S., celebrated last Sunday with grand ceremony at St. Joseph's church.

St. Mary's Council of Lawrence, Mass., has donated $500 to furnish a room in the new parochial school which the Rev. James T. O'Reilly is erecting in that city.

Last Sunday week about 500 Knights assembled at Oswego to witness the exemplification of the third degree on a class of eighty-five, one of whom was Mayor John Fitzgibbon. The work was put on by

IRELAND.
Record of the Most Important of the Recent Events Culled From Exchanges.

William N. Dawson was appointed Assistant Clerk of the Armagh Union.

The death has occurred in Mitchelstown of James Finn, a Fenian of the '68 days, for whose capture at the time a reward was offered.

At Athlone Quarter Sessions Judge Curran awarded $600 compensation on claims in connection with cattle driving to William H. Mulock, Ballycumber.

The Very Rev. Canon Flavin and Thomas Duggan have been unanimously re-elected Chairman and Vice Chairman respectively of the Clonmel Asylum Board.

Judge Bodkin awarded compensation in several claims for alleged malicious injuries at Ennis Quarter Sessions, the claimants including Lord Inchiquin.

At a recent meeting of the Athy Urban Council, Michael Bradley was appointed Town Surveyor. The vacancy was caused by the death of John Coleman.

Among those raised to the priesthood at Rome on the Feast of Trinity was the Rev. T. E. Garde, O. P., son of the late T. Garde, J. P., Castle-martyr, County Cork.

Judge Green at Armagh Quarter Sessions received white gloves. This was the second sessions in succession at which he received the emblem of no criminal business.

Over 100 policemen attended the resumed evictions at Cloonshanagh, County Roscommon, on the Tredinick estate. The two remaining tenants gave up possession peaceably.

Michael Clonoherty and Bartley Connor have been returned for trial at Galway by J. Kilbride, R. M., on a charge of driving fifty cattle off the lands of Mrs. Meldon, Bushy Park.

Annie Meehan, aged thirty, a farmer's wife at Ballyconnell, about ten miles from Sligo, has died of injuries believed to have been sustained by the kick of a cow which she was milking.

A young farmer named John Henry Brackenried, of Moybrone, near Enniskillen, has been remanded, charged with having fired a shot at Edward Elliott, with intent to murder him.

A death involving some mystery has taken place in Ballina Union Hospital. A man named Ben Fordy was recently working in a field near Swinford, when he was shot through the leg by a rifle bullet. Some time afterwards he was taken to the hospital, where after lingering for some time he died.

The Rev. Michael McDonald, of Westport, has been raised to the dignity of Canon, and has had also the title of V. F. conferred on him. The Rev. Father Flatley, of Clare Island, has been appointed parish priest of Aughagower in room of the late Canon Flatley.

The esteem in which the Rev. A. Gallagher, pastor of Glenfin, County Donegal, is held by his old parishioners at Gweedore was instanced when a deputation waited on the reverend gentleman and presented him with an illuminated address, a set of vestments and other gifts.

The Quarter Sessions which were held recently for the City of Kilkenny and a district comprising nearly half the entire county were unprecedented, as there were only seven defended cases. There has been a gradual falling off in litigation in recent years. There was no criminal business.

A sad bathing fatality occurred in the River Foyle, at Derry, the victim being Thomas Curran, a carpenter, aged twenty-one years, of Duke street. Curran and two other companions were bathing in the Foyle, opposite a place called the Bolles, when Curran got into difficulties and stuck in the mud, and though he made frantic efforts to extricate himself he failed.

SOUND COMMON SENSE.

The Park Commissioner of New York refused to issue orders to exclude the children from playing on the grass in the parks. It seems that some green-eyed busybodies interested themselves, as usual, in attending to public business which they receive no pay to superintend. It is this same class of people that will freeze their hands and generous ears to feed the squirrels in winter, but fail to see that children are as important, and often as hungry, as animals. The fool-killer should be discharged. He is constantly loafing on his job.

DESERVES MONUMENT.

Definite steps are being taken toward the erection of a monument to the memory of the late Father McKinnon, famous as one of the hero priests of America, who was chaplain of the First California Volunteers and went with "the boys" to the Philippines.

MOST CROWDED CITY.

The most overcrowded city in Europe and the dearest place to live in have become two of Vienna's distinctions. According to the latest statistics nearly one half of the dwellings in Vienna consists of one room. Everybody lives in flats, and 43 per cent. of the population are crowded into these single-room apartments. And 30,000 of them are inhabited by six or more persons. It is not surprising therefore that there is an appallingly high mortality rate.

HARD HEARTED BOYS.

If there is one thing God does not like, it is the reckless neglect of a mother's advice. A boy may have his passions and weaknesses, but when he laughs his mother's counsel into scorn, he may not expect much of a return from Heaven. The hardest heart for God to reach is the heart that is actually kindled of a mother's love and then willfully

AMERICANS

Carry Off High Honors in University of Apollinari.

Two American priests, the Rev. George J. Lucas, of Pittston, Pa., and the Rev. James P. McGraw, Chancellor of the Diocese of Syracuse, have carried off the highest honors this year in the canon law examinations at the University of Apollinari. The examinations for doctorate in canon law have been made especially severe, so only 50 per cent. of the trained scholars entered were successful. At the head of this list were the priests mentioned above. In civil law Father Henning, of Syracuse, was among the few successful students.

Father Dolan, at one time of New York, now rector of the English speaking church of San Silvestro in Rome, gave a dinner for the new doctors. Among those present were Cardinal Vincenzo Vannutelli, Archbishop Seton, Bishop Kennedy, rector of the American College; Mgr. Prior, auditor of the Rota for the English speaking world; Mgr. Luzzo, professor of canon law; Father Comiskey, at one time of Scranton; Father Brennan, of San Francisco, and many other distinguished ecclesiastics.

BENEDICTION

Bestowed at Catholic Educational Association Convention.

The Pope's apostolic benediction was bestowed with impressive ceremony upon the kneeling delegates to the National Catholic Educational Association's annual convention at Detroit on Tuesday by Archbishop Diomedé Falconio. The bestowal of the benediction followed the celebration of the pontifical high mass by Bishop Foley, of Detroit, who in welcoming three hundred priests and as many nuns representing various teaching orders formally opened the convention.

During the day technical addresses having to do with education and religion were presented by the Rev. Thomas J. Shahan, President of the Catholic University of America, Washington, and other prominent churchmen. It was announced that Mgr. Falconio bore a message of congratulation and advice from the Pope, which would be read Thursday.

CAPT. RYAN DEAD.

Capt. James E. Ryan, one of the best known men in Jeffersonville, for many years Superintendent of the army depot in that town, and lately City Clerk for one term, died early Friday morning at his home on Ohio street. Capt. Ryan returned to his home from St. Louis a few weeks ago, he having given up a position at the army depot there on account of ill health. Capt. Ryan was sixty-seven years of age. Capt. Ryan entered the Civil war as a drummer boy in Company H, Thirty-eighth Indiana Infantry, and served until July 15, 1865. He was popular among a large circle of acquaintances. He is survived in addition to Mrs. Ryan, by the following sons and daughters: Thomas, William, Edward and Ernest Ryan; Miss Nona Ryan, Mrs. Catherine Gannon and Mrs. Elizabeth Casey. He was a member of St. Augustine's church, where the funeral services were held with Rev. Father O'Connell as the officiating priest.

PLEASANTLY REMEMBERED.

Rev. John D. Kalaher, the energetic young pastor of St. Columba's church, was tendered a happy reception on Wednesday evening of last week at the home of his venerable mother, Mrs. Mary Kalaher, the occasion being the tenth anniversary of his ordination to the holy priesthood. Among those present were Rev. Fathers John D. Kalaher; Rev. Joseph Schoenig, O. M. C., of Trenton, N. J.; Rev. Donald J. Manning, of New Albany, and Messrs. James G. O'Neil, of Baltimore; John S. Pike, John D. Fallon, Daniel A. Driscoll, Charles J. Desse, Sr., Albert Thompson, Frank J. Martin, Fergus Fallon, Sr., Martin Finnegan, Sr., Martin J. Kalaher, Frank Schuckman, John J. Finnegan, Fergus Fallon, Jr., and Martin Finnegan, Jr. For Father Kalaher the evening was a pleasant one and will be long remembered by those who were present.

GOOD FERRY BILL.

Conspicuous among the announcements of Fontaine Ferry for next week is the engagement of Madge Caldwell as vocal soloist with Gregg's band in the daily free concert. Miss Caldwell sang herself into favor instantly and repeatedly at the park last summer. A big vaudeville bill will also hold forth, with the following contributing: George Reno & Co., presenting "The Misty Army"; Webster Cullison & Co., offering a farce called "Stung"; the three Misses Weston, dainty musicians; the ever-popular Bootblack Quartet, and Samarooff and Sonia, Russian dancers.

MOTION PICTURES.

Another spread of fine moving pictures has been provided for the patrons of the Casino, Princess and Columbia next week. Those who visit these shows a couple of times each week find there a great deal of clean, educative pleasure without feeling the cost. With their batteries of fans they provide a cool and delightful place to spend a part of the heated day or evening.

FORTY HOURS.

The Forty Hours' prayer will begin at St. Vincent de Paul's church, Shelby and Oak, at the high mass tomorrow morning and will come to a solemn close Tuesday evening. This is one of the busy or arduous, and therefore a number of visiting clergymen will assist in the services.

STRIKING

When Father Marquette Boat in Big Chicago Parade.

Leading float in the Illinois sect of Chicago's monster Fourth of July pageant was produced by the Kib of Columbus. The float represented Father Marquette as the missionary and explorer in the mid of an Indian village with two voyas as companions—with the Indian the act of rushing upon the upraised tomahawks—while great explorer is shown in the act of lifting aloft the cross in a religious appeal to the savages. The cost which was furnished by the Jesuiters, was an exact reproduction of that worn by the pioneer missionary and discoverer. All of the costumes were designed with a view to making the float as striking in keeping with the original as possible. The scene of the scene, from which Artist Thoma. O'Shaughnessy designed the float is located at the foot of Robey street, on the Chicago river, where Father Marquette first landed when the site of the present Chicago 1674.

POPE PIUS

Nam T. H. Kelly to Form of Cardinal's Suite.

Thos. Hughes Kelly, of New York, with Mrs. Kelly and his brother Eugene Kelly, has been in Rome the last month, has been officially appointed by the Pope to form of the suite of Cardinal gress Montreal.

It is actually settled that after the religious gathering in Canada Cardinal Legate will make official visit to the United States that New York will certainly included in his itinerary. Mgr. Trieri, of the Papal Secretary of State Department, will also form of the party. The Cardinal will be bearer of a special message from the Pope to the Congress, which will be the first gathering in America to be solemnly opened by a Cardinal legate.

PORTLAND VS. UNION PRINTERS.

John Dugan's crack union printer ball club of Cincinnati will be tomorrow for a game with the Portland Stars on Portland's grounds Thirty-fifth and Rudd avenue. A record breaking crowd is expected as the Cincinnati printers are coming with a large delegation of rooters and the local allied printing trade will turn out in numbers. Louisville Typographical Union has made arrangements to entertain the team and printers accompanying them. The team is entered in the contest at Washington this summer for the championship of the printers' league, of Harry Lally, of Portland, wishes to take their measure for the sake of local pride, and will Doherty and Brady for his batter Howard Williams, Portland's crashstopper, is expected to be in the line-up tomorrow.

YOUR MATRON DEAD.

Profound regret was expressed by hundreds Wednesday when it was learned that Mrs. Mary Bush had died that morning at the family residence, 102 South Sixth street. Death was due to a complication of ailments. Mrs. Bush was born in this city thirty years ago and the greater part of her life was spent here. She survived by her husband, Albe H. Bush, a well known member of the Knights of Columbus; her mother, one sister, and three brothers. Joseph Torpey, yardmaster for the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company, is her eldest brother. The funeral took place from St. Louis Bertrand church yesterday morning, and was attended by many sorrowing friends.

ENJOY THE EVENING.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Clines entertained on the evening of the Fourth at their home, 658 Grainger Court, in honor of Frank Higgins and the class of 1910 of St. Xavier College. The evening was pleasantly spent with vocal and instrumental music and a number of games. Those winning the prizes were James J. Gleason, Main Ridge and John E. Klein. Late in the evening the graduates were seated and did full justice to the banquet prepared by Mrs. Clines. The house was decorated in red, white and blue and illuminated with many vari-colored lanterns. Upon leaving all joined in saying they had spent a most enjoyable evening.

HONOR PRESIDENT BURKE.

Robert T. Burke, Grand President of the Kentucky Jurisdiction, paid an official visit to the Y. M. I. council of Memphis last week, with most satisfactory results. Following a large and enthusiastic meeting of Chickasaw Council the Grand President was honored at a banquet, presided over by George Lawo, when addresses were delivered by Rev. Fathers Sullivan and Farmer, W. M. Stanton, J. M. Canale and others. The Catholics of Memphis appreciate the visit and work of President Burke.

BROTHER CELESTINE.

Numerous Louisville friends and relatives of Brother Celestine, who is best remembered as James Cassin, of Notre Dame University, and whose custom it has been to spend his annual vacation in Kentucky, may not have the pleasure of seeing him this year. The Dwyer Catholic Register thus notes his presence in Colorado: "Brother B. Celestine, C. S. C., Notre Dame, Ind., the traveling representative for the Ave Maria line, is in Colorado Springs, news connected with."
